What's new on RMLunits.com

Please note our website works best when using Google Chrome internet browser on a Windows 10 operating system.
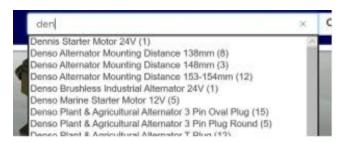

Improved part number search:
Now the search will ignore all hyphens (-), spaces and treat 0's and O's as the same, especially when searching Bosch part numbers.

New advanced product search:
This enables you to identify units with no part numbers. You can now search:
- Yanmar 10 teeth starter motors;
- Denso alternators by dimensions; and
- regulators by their make and function.

If you're using Windows 10, type the first 3 letters of what you're looking for and the search bar will reveal a drop down list with options relating to your search. Please see the example below.

New drop shipping feature:
Drop shipping enables you to send products from our warehouse directly to your customers, using your paperwork and your logo. To utilise this feature, you will need to set this up in your account settings first.

There is also a new post code look up field for you to quickly add in your customer's address.

Customise our homepage with your name and logo:
Once you have added your company name and logo in your account settings, this will automatically show on the homepage, making our website, yours.

Ability to hide prices when logged in:
This feature makes prices invisible, which you may find useful if using our website on a front counter etc.

An updated and more user friendly frame match feature:
This feature allows you to see units with the same dimensions, but pulleys and electronics could be different.
